OK let's talk about the animation mentioned before. Currently there is a PV out back in 2012 and no further confirmation has been released ever since For details see the batoto forum thread, I've replied with more details about it.

On a side note, I checked the website of the animation studio mentioned in the PV, they still have this series listed as an ongoing project, with an English title of 'The story of my monitor'. I personally favour my own translation, but 'monitor' is a good word that I forgot. Guess I'll have to stick to 'class president'.

Don't ask me what the last page means. I don't know either. But the author would be likely to include a page after the chapter since this one, and I would include them in future releases.

And how does this chapter feel? Trust me it's just a 'little trap', as the title indicated.

Next chapter: Endless Troubles
